For over twenty-five years the Firm has assisted its clients to preserve and transfer wealth in a manner that minimizes estate taxes and the costs of administration of the estate and maximizes the delivery of their assets to intended beneficiaries. The Firm serves a range of clients, from those with modest estates requiring only basic planning to large complex estates requiring use of sophisticated planning techniques designed to avoid or minimize estate taxes. In each case, the Firm's estate planning attorneys provide individualized attention to each matter, the ultimate goal being to develop a plan that meets the unique needs and desires of each client.

The Firm is highly capable of designing plans that make appropriate use of wills, health care directives, and testamentary, life-time and charitable trusts. The Firm's attorneys also have considerable experience representing administrators and executors in the administration of estates and have successfully defended wills submitted to probate and challenged defective wills.

The Firm's estate planning attorneys are graduates of law schools of national prominence and have extensive experience advising clients regarding complex legal matters. The Firm uses the latest in electronic research, drafting software and document assembly programs to provide efficient customized estate plans to its clients.

NON-PROFIT CORPORATION (RELIGIOUS ORGANIZATIONS)

Non-profit corporations and similar entities must comply with a complex set of statutes and tax rules that must be followed if favorable and legal operation under the law is to be achieved. For religious organizations, the legal landscape is even more daunting because such organizations also operate in a legal environment made even more complex by religious custom, doctrine and church discipline.

The Firm's lawyers are adept at advising religious and non-profit organizations regarding the unique legal issues that such organizations encounter. The Firm has represented religious organizations in commercial transactions, real estate development projects, and with respect to church governance issues, including litigating several church schism matters. The Firm has assisted many churches, large and small, with campus expansion projects, real estate acquisitions and commercial lending matters. The Firm has provided advice with regard to tax-exempt status and advice and counsel to boards of trustees and/or directors.
